4. Enforcement of the rights of data subjects

You are entitled to the rights detailed in this section. If you wish to exercise any of these rights, please contact us using one of the means provided in Section 1.

Identification

Before fulfilling your request, we must verify your identity. To do so, it is sufficient to provide some personal data that we already have on record.

Response to the Request

After identification, we will provide information regarding your request or inquiry—either by letter or email, depending on the form of your submission.

Response Time

We will provide information on the actions taken in response to your request within 1 (one) month of receiving the request at the latest. If necessary, taking into account the complexity and number of requests, this deadline may be extended by an additional 2 (two) months, of which you will be notified within the initial 1 (one) month response period. If no action is taken, you will be informed within the 1 (one) month response time, and you have the right to submit a complaint to the NAIH and seek judicial remedies.

Fees for Processing

The requested information and actions are free of charge. An exception applies if the request is clearly unfounded or—particularly due to its repetitive nature—excessive. In such cases, we may charge a fee or refuse to comply with the request.

a) Right to information and access

In accordance with the obligation set out in Article 13 of the GDPR, the Data Controller is required to provide the following information on data processing to the data subject, if the personal data comes from the data subject, at the time of obtaining the personal data:

- a) the identity and the contact details of the controller and its representative;
- b) the contact details of the data protection officer, where applicable;
- c) the purpose of the processing for which the personal data are intended as well as the legal basis for the processing;
- d) the recipients or categories of recipients of the personal data, if any;
- e) the period for which the personal data will be stored, or if that is not possible, the criteria used to determine that period;

- f) information about the existence of the right to request from the data controller access to and rectification or erasure of personal data or restriction of processing concerning the data subject or to object to processing as well as the right to data portability;
- g) where the processing is based on consent, the existence of the right to withdraw consent at any time, without affecting the lawfulness of processing based on consent before its withdrawal;
- h) the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority;
- i) whether the provision of personal data is a statutory or contractual requirement, or a requirement necessary to enter into a contract, as well as whether the data subject is obliged to provide the personal data and of the possible consequences of failure to provide such data.

Where personal data have not been obtained from the data subject, the Data Controller shall provide the data subject with the above information and in addition to them, pursuant to Article 14 of the GDPR, the following information:

- a) the categories of personal data concerned;
- b) the recipients or categories of recipients of the personal data, if any;
- c) from which source the personal data originate, and if applicable, whether it came from publicly accessible sources.

b) Right to rectification

The data subject shall have the right to obtain from the Data Controller without undue delay the rectification of inaccurate personal data concerning him or her. Taking into account the purposes of the processing, the data subject shall have the right to have incomplete personal data completed, including by means of providing a supplementary statement.

c) Right to erasure (“right to be forgotten”)

The data subject shall have the right to obtain from the Data Controller the erasure of personal data concerning him or her without undue delay and the Data Controller shall have the obligation to erase personal data without undue delay where one of the following grounds applies:

- a) the personal data are no longer necessary in relation to the purposes for which they were collected or otherwise processed;
- b) the data subject withdraws his/her consent underlying the processing and there is no other legal basis for the processing;
- c) the personal data have been unlawfully processed;
- d) the personal data have to be erased for compliance with a legal obligation in Union or Member State law to which the data controller is subject; OR
- e) the personal data have been collected in relation to the offer of information society services.

The data subject’s right to erasure can only be restricted in the case of the following exceptions as per the GDPR, i.e. even if the above reasons exist, the further retention of personal data may be considered lawful,

- a) if it is necessary for exercising the right to freedom of expression and information, or
- b) if it is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation (i.e. a legal obligation in the Data Processing Register for an activity defined by the legal basis for a period appropriate to the purpose of data processing), or
- c) if it is necessary for performance of a task carried out in the public interest, or
- d) if it is necessary for the exercising of an official authority vested in the data controller, or
- e) if it is necessary for the fulfilment of public interest affecting the area of public health,
- f) if it is necessary for archiving in the public interest, or
- g) if it is necessary for scientific or historical research or for statistical purposes, or
- h) if it is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

d) Restriction of Data Processing

Data subjects may request the restriction of data processing if any of the following conditions are met:

- a) If data subjects contest the accuracy of the personal data, in which case the restriction applies for the period necessary to verify the accuracy of the personal data;
- b) The data processing is unlawful, but data subjects oppose the erasure of the data and instead request the restriction of their use;
- c) The personal data is no longer needed for the purposes of the data processing, but data subjects require it for the establishment, exercise, or defense of legal claims;
- d) Data subjects have objected to the data processing; in this case, the restriction applies for the period until it is determined whether the legitimate grounds of the Data Controller override those of the data subjects.

In the case of restriction, personal data may only be processed, except for storage, with the data subjects' consent, or for the establishment, exercise, or defense of legal claims, or for the protection of the rights of another natural or legal person, or for reasons of important public interest of the Union or of a Member State.

e) Right to data portability

The data subject shall have the right to receive the personal data concerning him or her, which he or she has provided to the Data Controller, in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format and have the right to transmit those data to another data controller without hindrance from the data controller to which the personal data have been provided, if:

- the data subject's consent was the legal basis of processing or the processing was necessary for the performance of a contract to which the data subject is party or in order to take steps at the request of the data subject prior to entering into a contract [Article 6(1) or point (b) or Article 9(2)(a) of the GDPR]

AND

- the processing is carried out by automated means.

f) Right to Object to the Processing of Personal Data

Data subjects have the right to object to the processing of their personal data if the legal basis for the processing is the legitimate interest of the Data Controller or a third party. In such cases, the personal data will be deleted unless the processing is justified by compelling legitimate grounds that override the interests, rights, and freedoms of the data subjects, or if it is necessary for the establishment, exercise, or defense of legal claims.

g) Right to Withdraw Consent

If the legal basis for the processing of personal data by the Data Controller is the data subject's consent, then the data subject has the right to withdraw their consent to the data processing at any time.

Legal Remedy

The Data Controller shall compensate the damages caused to any party as a result of unlawful processing of the data subject's data or violation of the data security requirements, and shall pay the aggravated damages (compensation for injury to feelings) payable in the event the Data Controller or the data processor hired by it caused personality right infringements. The data controller shall be exempt from the liability for the damages caused and from the obligation to pay the aggravated damages if it proves that it is not in any way responsible for the event giving rise to the damage.

The data subject shall be entitled to turn directly to the Data Controller for remedy regarding any violation caused to them or in relation to any complaint, at the following e-mail: info@hudex.hu

Should the data subject have any complaints regarding the data processing carried out by the Data Controller, the data subject may file a complaint to the Hungarian National Authority for Data Protection and Freedom of Information (address: 1055 Budapest, Falk Miksa utca 9-11., mailing address: 1363 Budapest, Pf.: 9.; phone number: +36 (1) 391-1400; e-mail: ugyfelszolgalat@naih.hu, website: www.naih.hu).

The data subject may refer their case to court in order to protect their data, and the court will address their case in an accelerated procedure. In such an event, the data subjects may decide whether they file their legal action to the regional court having competence according to their domicile (permanent address) or according to their habitual residence (temporary address)(<http://birosag.hu/torvenyszekek>). They can look up the regional court having 14 competence according to their domicile or habitual residence on the website at <http://birosag.hu/ugyfelkapcsolati-portal/birosag-kereso>.

Miscellaneous provisions, entry into force

This Privacy Notice is effective from January 31, 2025, until its withdrawal.

For matters not specified in this Privacy Notice, the provisions of the GDPR shall apply, and in cases permitted by the GDPR, the supplementary rules of the Hungarian Information Act (Infotv.) shall be applicable.
